FYI

How many shows does a rider need to attend for their points to count?

Horses and riders, or drivers, which have competed and placed in the top six placings at a minimum of two EC sanctioned competitions offering classes in their breed sport or discipline and in their province, will have their points count towards year end awards.

How are points calculated at each show, for each discipline, that go towards the year end awards?

Points for placing in the class are multiplied by the number of horses competing in the class.

Placings are valued at: 1st place-----6 pts

2nd place----5 pts

3rd place-----4 pts

4th place-----3 pts

5th place-----2 pts

6th place-----1 pt

At a championship show-

Placings are valued at: 1st place-----7 pts

2nd place----5 pts

3rd place-----4 pts

4th place-----3 pts

5th place-----2 pts

6th place-----1 pt

EXAMPLE: Points awarded at a Bronze Show in a class of 10 horses.

1st place (6x10) 60 pts

2nd place (5x10) 50 pts

3rd place (4x10) 40 pts

Etc.

Points awarded at a Bronze Championship show in a class with 10 horses.

1st place (7x10) 70

2nd place (5x10) 50

3rd place (4x10) 40

Etc.

The competition management is responsible for recording the number of horses per class. All counts must be based on the judges score card or, in the event that the judge's card does not have a complete count of class entries, either the ring master's or the competition secretary's count will be used. In the event of a tie, duplicate awards must be presented.

If a horse show uses EC rules, does that make it a sanctioned horse show?

No. Horse shows may say they are following EC rules, but unless they have paid their sanctioning fees to EC, they are not legally sanctioned events. Therefore, a participant has no legal grounds to challenge a ruling and a competition organizer has no ruling body to back them. ONLY a sanctioned competition in good standing is authorized to operate under and use the copyrighted rules of Equestrian Canada and, with the permission of EC, the rules of the FEI.

Do all horse shows have liability insurance?

No. Non- sanctioned horse shows are not governed by any ruling body and are therefore not required to carry liability insurance. All EC sanctioned horse shows are required to carry a $2million liability insurance policy.

Memberships Required

An exhibitor requires an annual Equestrian Canada Bronze Sport License ($25) and an NBEA membership ($50/adult or $43/ youth) to compete in all sanctioned bronze level shows.

Vaccinations Required

A coggins test may be required for some sanctioned shows. It is important for an exhibitor to check the prize list for each show they plan on entering as this is where you will find the required vaccinations list for that particular show. Your veterinarian can advise you on the common/ typical vaccinations given in your area. Remember to get your complete list early so you can have your horse up to date before show season begins.
