Jason Milburn of Muskoka horse Co is a certified NCCP Competition Coach for both English and Western disciplines and Specialist Jump. With over 30 years of experience in equestrian sport, he is dedicated to learning new skills and techniques that he can bring back to his athletes and shares his knowledge and wisdom to meet and surpass their goals. He is passionate about equine care and nutrition and is well known for his commitment to his athletes and their horses. No matter the skill level, he is able to build a program that sets both human and equine athlete up for success. He is supportive of their goals and pays attention to the well being of the horse and the athlete throughout the process. Jason is a mentor to instructor and coach candidates and a Learn to Ride Program Evaluator and is trained to deliver the Rookie Riders Program.

Jen Marsden Hamilton is an internationally renowned coach, certified at Canada's highest level. She has travelled throughout Canada, New Zealand, Australia, and Kenya to coach, training riders from grassroots to elite athletes to international team members, for over 45 years.

Jen developed and wrote the National Coaching Certification Program's (NCCP) Level III Jumper, becoming the first coach to achieve that certification. After sport-specifying the NCCP's Level IV program for Jumper coaches, she became the first person to achieve that level.

Jen is the author of two books, including her very popular Stride Control: Exercises to Improve Rideability, Adjustability, and Performance.
